What is The Free State Project (FSP)?

The Free State Project (www.freestateproject.org) is an effort to recruit 20,000 liberty-loving people to move to New Hampshire and participate socially and politically to effect smaller government and more individual freedom for all of the state's residents.

Why should I attend PorcFest?

There are many reasons, but if you are considering signing up to be part of the FSP, want to socialize with fellow pro-liberty activists, or want to experience the Live Free or Die state, PorcFest is definitely for you.

What if I'm not a participant of the Free State Project?

PorcFest is for everybody who loves liberty! Even if you're just curious about the FSP, this is an ideal opportunity to meet those who've signed up and see New Hampshire first-hand.

What if I can't attend the entire week?

Come for as much as you can. Review the schedule on the website and see what fits your interests. The "big" days are Friday and Saturday, so if you can make those, you should be fine.

What if I do not like to camp?

There are plenty of hotels in the area; many are listed on our website. Demand will be high, so make your reservation ASAP.

What if I'm short on funds or don't have transportation?

Visit the Porcs Helping Porcs section of the website to find offers of car-pooling, shared housing, etc.

Who attends PorcFest?

PorcFest brings together a fun, diverse group of liberty loving folks from all corners of the world. Whether you're a family or coming by yourself, young or old, rich or poor, anarchist or minarchist, you'll feel right at home.

What happens at PorcFest?

Regional tours of New Hampshire, concerts, campfires and BBQs, discussion groups, exciting speakers, outdoor activities and more. Further details are on the website.
